A woman's intimate parts need to be cared for and protected

The weather on the outside may determine how you feel on the outside, but it's your body's environment on the inside that brings you wellness (or not). In particular, a woman's intimate parts are a highly sensitive area – and therefore must be cared for protected just like any other.

The acidity of the genital area is around 3.5-4.5 on the pH scale. This acidic environment makes a great home for lactic acid bacteria that effectively out-compete other harmful bacteria. If this pH balance is disturbed, there's a good chance that the bad bacteria may multiply and further disrupt the delicate healthy balance.

The benefits of gentle care with the „orange-blue luxury intimate cleansing foam“

orange-blue intimate cleansing foam support the skin's own natural protective mechanisms at your most sensitive areas – helping keep you balanced.

The mild composition pampers you every day with quality ingredients, moisture and an extra dose of freshness and well-being.

Your daily rites for your well-being – sometimes more than once a day – mean that orange-blue luxury intimate cleansing foam is your best companion in the bathroom.

Combine cleaning and care with effortlessness and indulgence: you can feel the benefits with orange-blue luxury intimate cleansing foam while pampering your senses – for a greater feeling of femininity and wellness every day!

How can a WOMAN recognize a good personal care product?

Why do I need anything more than just water, shower gel and soap?

That's a perfectly legitimate question if you aren't yet aware of the following factors:

Mild ingredients, organic substances and natural lactic acid effectively protect the intimate areas and help confer a sense of wellness and health.

Washing too often (or too much) with water can disrupt the sensitive vaginal flora simply by washing away the good bacteria.

Most shower gels and cleansers break down the protective acid layer in a woman's genital region and disturb the sensitive balance there.

orange-blue luxury intimate cleansing foam

is the ideal product for the modern, body-conscious woman!

It supports YOU in your cleaning and care, boosting and maintaining your beauty, refreshing and revitalizing, caring for you and enriching your skin with its quality ingredients – so that you can pamper your femininity with confidence.

orange-blue luxury intimate cleansing foam care for and pamper your femininity!

natural spring water

We use only the purest, highest quality thermal spring water for orange-blue. The high mineral content is what makes spring water so incredibly valuable. Natural thermal spring water has proven its benefits not only for drinking but has advantages in cosmetics and care for the sensitive facial skin as well. Spring water is ideal for a woman's intimate areas – but that's not all that orange-blue luxury intimate cleansing foam has to offer.

Gentle cleansing, fresh fragrance and a pleasant feeling for your skin

The mineral content effectively helps support the skin's own cleansing mechanisms in your genital areas. Natural calendula extract also helps combat odors and reduce itching. That way you feel fresh, cared for and clean while your skin feels soft and pleasant, even in your most sensitive areas.

The perfect pH balances mean mild and effective protection orange-blue intimate cleansing foam contains pure and completely natural lactate from milk, with a pH value of 4.7 that directly boosts the skin's own cleaning powers. Regular use of orange-blue intimate cleansing foam therefore helps stabilize and maintain the natural pH balance of a woman's intimate areas, which helps keep harmful bacteria in check.

Extra gentle on the skin because it contains aloe vera, the queen of medicinal plants

Aloe vera confers extra moisture to the skin as well as providing valuable anti-oxidative ingredients that help combat inflammation. The properties and benefits of aloe vera are enough to fill volumes; the addition of allantoin and calendula extract further help the cleansing foam combat unpleasant redness and itching.

Anti-aging, antibacterial and anti-oxidative

Natural phenols present in orange-blue intimate cleansing foam help stop the spread of harmful bacteria in a woman's intimate areas by boosting the body's own immune defenses against external factors and thus providing all-day protection. Antibacterial phenols act like a sanitary police and their anti-oxidative properties also help protect against free radicals, one of the main causes of (premature) aging.

Cream that brightens and moisturizes the skin – for an even more beautiful bikini zone

Pure, natural lactate from milk – in combination with a product acquired through unique processes that works just like hyaluronic acid – provides your skin with moisture while at the same time regular use helps brighten your intimate areas until they shine – perfectly naturally!

Rich foam, for feeling of wellness and pleasure every day

The mousse-like quality of the orange-blue intimate cleansing foam not only feels pleasant, but the pump also means that you get an exact amount each time. Another plus: orange-blue is richly economical: a small amount is enough for a pleasant washing. The pleasant and refreshing citrus scent finishes off a luxurious intimate cleansing with an unparalleled good feeling.

orange-blue Intimate
